Transitional Fire Attack

First due arrives on scene, officer conducts 360, "Thinking Firefighter" deploys the attack line per training and SOG to a fire attack position

While officer is doing 360, firefighter begins to flow water into fire room directing the stream towards the ceiling, stream must be solid stream, broken or fog patterns will entrain air and not give desired results. Note the control gained in the fire room and improved tenability in the structure.

Once officer meets back at Side Alpha, crew makes interior push for final extinguishment and over all fire control.

Transitional attack is not a new tactic, it has simply been quantified by research and science as another tool for quick knock down in certain situations
